

ABSTRACT

Processes to recover brine from drilling fluids and other fluids is described. One process involves filtering drilling fluids or other well servicing fluids using a rotary vacuum filter to recover at least a portion of the brine in the drilling fluid. Well servicing fluids, including drilling fluids, containing recycled brine are further described.